

MESSAGE FROM ASSOCIATE PROVOST (UG EDUCATION)

Dear UG students

With effect from 15 March 2022, the Multi-Ministry Taskforce has streamlined the national Safe Management Measures (SMMs). In particular:

- a. A one-metre safe distance is no longer required in mask-on settings;
- b. The cap of 50 persons per class is lifted; and
- c. All mask-on classes, lectures, exams can be conducted without any zoning, as long as these are conducted in accordance with national capacity limits (currently 1,000 or more depending on venue capacity).

In light of these updates to the SMMs, we are changing our campus teaching safety measures to the following:

- Current restrictions on class sizes and safe distancing in classes will be lifted from 28 March 2022 onwards, as long as classes are conducted with masks on. This means that we will no longer restrict classes to a cap of 50 persons and will no longer block seats in the seminar rooms.
- Students who contract COVID-19, or are symptomatic, and cannot attend classes on campus should approach their instructors to seek alternative arrangements.

We are in the midst of finalising the plans for this term's final examinations and will provide an update in due course.

Thank you for your support and cooperation. We wish you all the best for the remaining few weeks of the term.

Kindest regards,

Michelle Lee
Associate Provost (Undergraduate Education)
Associate Professor of Marketing (Education)